Introduction

We use a stringent sample-setting process to determine which companies are asked to respond to the disclosure request. CDP aims to cover the biggest global companies by market capitalization (market cap), given this information is most relevant to investors. This is primarily based on companies included in selected market cap indexes, but companies may also be requested where they are deemed to have considerable environmental impact. Where the number of companies listed in the index or stock exchange is larger than the CDP sample size, the largest companies by market cap are selected. We base the sample on financial data available in the final quarter of the previous calendar year.

Please contact investor@cdp.net with any queries related to this list.

List of companies requested by investors to complete the climate change questionnaire in 2019

Selection for inclusion varies between samples, but will either be based on an index or stock exchange. Where the number of companies listed in the index or stock exchange is larger than the CDP sample size, the largest companies by market capitalization are selected.

CDP Water Security 2019

List of companies requested by investors to complete the water security questionnaire in 2019

Selection for inclusion varies between samples, but will either be based on an index or stock exchange. Where the number of companies listed in the index or stock exchange is larger than the CDP sample size, the largest companies by market capitalization are selected. All companies have been selected using water-relevant criteria. .

Water Global

Over 1570 companies with sufficiently large revenue earnings in business activities deemed to impact or be impacted by water security. It is primarily a subset of the index-based company selection applied for climate change, supplemented with key companies targeted by investor stakeholders engaged in water security issues.
